The Idea

Tidebound: The Fishing RPG Where You Draw Your Catches

Journey across a mysterious archipelago and bring life to the tidepools in this fast-paced, stylus-based combat. Encircle moving fish to catch them, then bring various species to life via your own creativity. Every fish becomes a masterpiece; draw it however you like and it appears in your aquarium. Explore tide pools, discover rare species, and upgrade your equipment in this unique blend of action RPG and creative expression

Why this game?

Built for the Streaming Era

Twitch and TikTok have changed what makes a game successful- it's not just about fun, but about being shareable. When players draw their own fish, every stream creates unique content. Viewers spam chat with fish ideas, streamers create cursed creatures live on air, and clips go viral.

Accessible Innovation

Most games use the same controls in the same manner and build off industry standard to deliver a unified experience to players. This game delves into a new but well-understood mechanic- using a stylus. It works on devices people already own, and brings new uses to drawing tablets that people may already own.

Key Mechanics

1

Encirclement Combat

Fish dart and weave around the screen in real-time. Draw quick circles around them with your stylus to trap and catch them

2

Creative Customization

Every fish you catch becomes a blank canvas. Draw it however you want: realistic, abstract, memey, cursed, and it permanently joins your collection with your art style.

3

Collection & Cataloging

Build the ultimate aquarium by catching every species across different biomes, weather conditions, and times of day.

4

Trading & Community Sharing

Share your custom fish designs with other players or trade duplicates to expand your collection.

5

RPG Progression

Upgrade your fishing rod, unlock special lures, and improve your stats.

Hand-Drawn Coastal Charm

- Top-down overworld exploration: Soft, painterly environments reminiscent of early Pokémon meets Animal Crossing's gentle aesthetic. Rocky tide pools, sandy beaches, and lush island vegetation rendered in a warm, inviting palette
- Dynamic combat transitions: Zoom into individual tide pools for catching sequences, shifting to a contained arena view where fish dart across the screen.
- Living canvas aquarium: Your hand-drawn fish swim alongside the game's art style, creating a beautiful collision of professional assets and player creativity.
- Cohesive color palette: Ocean blues, sandy beiges, sunset corals, and tidal greens create a relaxing, natural atmosphere.

A Mysterious Coastal Archipelago

You arrive on a quiet island village where fishing isn't just a pastime- it's an art form. Explore interconnected islands, discover hidden tide pools, befriend quirky locals, and uncover the secrets of the islands.

The game balances peaceful exploration with moments of focused action. It's about self-expression through your drawings and the satisfaction of building something uniquely yours.

The Content Creator

Age: 18-28

Creates unique shareable moments every stream. Needs games that generate endless unique content.

The Digital Artist

Age: 16-30

Wants a creative outlet that's entertaining, where their art becomes part of gameplay instead of just sitting in a folder.

The Mobile Gamer

Age 12-35

Plays in short 5-15 minute sessions during downtime, wants satisfying collection-based gameplay without ads or microtransactions.

The Young Creative

Age 8-14

Loves drawing their own characters and showing creations to friends and family. Wants age-appropriate games with creative freedom and no wrong answers.

Mom Feedback

Game should be accessible for both artistic and non-artistic audience.
Guidelines and descriptions gives prompts for players to potentially follow. Maybe weather impacts?
No antagonist or anti-progression, maybe should have some obstacle
Based n real fish for educational element?

Friend Feedback

While the original concept was solid- a fishing RPG- talking to a friend elevated this concept to another level. During a conversation with a friend, they suggested adding player customization to the caught fish, inspired by My Voice Zoo, a recent indie game that's going viral among streamers and vtubers. I think this suggestion enhances the already-present tablet usage and invites creativity and customization from users.

Conclusion

The foundation of a good game starts with a solid core idea; in this case, blending fishing with RPG questing. The concept really came alive when you ad unexpected elements that diversify player experiences. Talking through my idea with others revealed the fish customization idea, which transformed the game from something interesting to something extraordinary (in my opinion).
